GENERAL INTRODUCTION

1.1 Background to the Study

The youth are acclaimed to be the future leaders, because of the crucial role they play in political and social development of any nation. They serve as the building block that links the past with the present. They also represent the future hope of every society. The survival of any political system depend on the role of youth in participatory democratic platform which allowed all groups regardless of their position, to participate, articulate and negotiate the interest of national unity.¹

A cardinal feature of democracy remains the active participation of people in governance.² The idea of youth participation in electoral process has become a popular part of contemporary political talk in every part of the world. In democratic states youth are leaders of tomorrow. This is because their age category is accompanied with physical, emotional and cognitive development that provides them the opportunity to contribute their own quota toward the growth and development of the nations.³ Youth can be identified in the society as transitional stage because of the overall development that take place within the fixed age category. The place and participation of youth in our political process cannot be undermined or over emphasized. For our democracy to be stable and functional youth must be part of the process. Youth have both right and responsibility to help to shape future that they would inherit and quality of life they would experienced.\textsuperscript{4}

Youth participation as a substantial force for inducing planed change which has gained a universal recognition. Youth participation is an expression of an essential involvement of people in their electoral process.\textsuperscript{5} The idea of youth has existed throughout modern civilization, rapid technological development which has resulted in series of lines capable of social reality and also youth participation help to the adoption of such realities.\textsuperscript{6} before then changed has occurred without plans or guidance but, today the trained is towards a planned. Change has enable youth in a large segment of societies to actively participate in planning and deliberates changes by creating political parties which affect their lives.\textsuperscript{7}

\textbf{1.2 Statement of Research Problem}

Electoral process are mechanism by which youth of any back ground can be activity involve or participate in task of shaping policy and deciding how society should be governed, especially in democratic setting. Youth participation as a phenomenon is very central as far as electoral process is concerned.

Eventually, within the context of political economy youth are subjected to extreme subject poverty. This has resulted from economic crises as well as adoption of Structural Adjustment Programme (SAP) to imposed on powerless Nigeria states by institutions for global governance. It is against this background that power elites and other political class are opportune exploited the situation and recruited the aggrieved and poverty ridden youth as political brigandage in order to assist them in attaining and retaining political power. The youth are financed and equipped with dangerous weapons such as knife, sword, digger by political class in order to intermediate and assassinate their political opponents.

In addition, in adequate knowledge, or information on politics particularly, electoral process coupled with low level of deprivation among the youth. Lack of active engagement or participation of youth in our electoral process also affect the credibility of the entire electoral process.

Besides, the engagement of youth into electoral process is attributed to the moral laxity and decadence in our contemporary societies. Infact the recruitment of youth by political elites, as political thugs is related to lack of moral training from parent. This is due to the fact that the families that cannot afford to give sound moral to their youth. Low level of political education is also another problems, as a result of this, very few among them were highly educated and politically motivated. Youth are only responsible in expressing the civil obligation but, they are not fully take part. As-a-result people were not fully socialize and they don’t know their significance in electoral process in shaping, influencing public official and politics.
1.3 Research Question

The study seeks to raise and answer the following questions:

i. To what extent do youth participate in electoral process in Birnin Kebbi?

ii. What are the factors encourage youth participation in electoral process?

iii. What are the factors hindering youth participation in electoral process?

iv. What are the solutions toward improving youth participation in electoral process?

1.4 Objectives of the Study

The study has the following objectives:

i. To explore the effort, role and contribution of youth in the electoral process

ii. To examine the factor hindering the participation of youth in electoral process

iii. To assess the factors encouraging youth participation in electoral process

iv. To offer solutions that could encourage youth participation in electoral process.

1.5 Significance of the Study

The research is important to point out that, the negative role of youth in electoral process would be discourage and positive role would be enhanced so as to pave way for peaceful electoral process in Birnin Kebbi. Equally, the study is significant in identifying major areas in which youth participate in electoral process. The study is also important in the sense that, it provides suggestion to enhance the future conduct of free violence election among the youth in Nigeria.

1.6 Research Hypotheses

In consonance with the statement of the research problem, the hypotheses are as follows:

i. Literacy among the youth is likely to be a motivating factor in electoral process

ii. High level of deprivation among the youth is likely to affect youth participation in electoral process.

iii. Proper public campaigns could serve to motivate youth participation in electoral process.

iv. Socio-economic status among youth is likely to affect youth participation in electoral process.

1.7 Scope of the Study

Virtually, the youth do participate in many political processes in Nigeria, like engaging in political campaigns, electoral activities among other things.

But, essentially, this study intends to cover youth participation in electoral process in 2015 general election, choosing Birnin Kebbi metropolis as a case study.
In addition, to the above, the study would only focus on the role of youth in electoral process and factors that hinders the participation of youth in electoral process as well as factors that encourages youth participation in politics within Birnin Kebbi metropolis. With reference to 2015 general election.

1.8 Operationalization of Basic Concepts

i. Electoral Process

Electoral process is defined as the process of selecting office or representatives of an organization or from vote of its qualified members.

ii. Youth

Youth refers to the period between adolescent and adulthood in the post morder era.\(^8\)

Unicef, defined youth as those group between the age of 15-25 year

Jonson, argued, that leadership of youth programme has no upper age limit their membership has in practice covered people of over 35-45years.\(^9\)

1.9 Research Methodology

This deals with what information that could be obtained and how do this work could be obtained and how do this work go about obtaining such information. For the purpose of this research work the following methods are to be used as a main source of data. primary and secondary data.
i. Primary and Secondary data is mainly through interviews with some youth in Birnin Kebbi

ii. Secondary source of data is a sourced from documents, literature, such as journal, magazines, and text books on youth participation in electoral process.

iii. Sampling procedure and size-random sampling method would be used to sample out respondents from general population. The sampling of sixty (60) questionnaire would be used within Birnin Kebbi, singling out respondent from different location of Birnin Kebbi metropolis. Where the collection of data would not be concentrated on a single location of Birnin Kebbi metropolis. So as to assess the views of the youth using different location.

iv. Questionnaire:- The questionnaire would also be used in the collection of data from the respondents. This would be design in a simple and clear language in which the respondent can easily understand. Both open and close ended question would be adopted.

1.10 Chapterization

This research work is divided in to five (5) chapters one is general introduction whereby the back ground of the study is out line statement of research problems, aim and objectives, hypotheses, significance of research work, scope and limitations of the study, research methodology and definitions of terms.

CHAPTER TWO
LITERATURE REVIEW

2.0 Introduction

A number of literatures have been written on youth participation on electoral process in Nigeria. There have been several views contributed by scholars on electoral process in Nigeria. Some of those literatures were reviewer, assessed and analyzed. This is to enable this research to find out a clear picture of youth participation in electoral process in Birnin Kebbi metropolis.¹

Similarly, of Nigerian’s Population of 166 millions, 50 percent are youth. The involvement of young people in 2015 general election is not surprising in the sense that they constitute about 70% percent of general population. The impact of young people in 2015 general election mostly face on social media flat form, mobilizing, youth population for campaign voting process and also participated in build up to election by attending ra lies, and engaging in dabe.²

2.1 Youth have played a significant role for the emergence of Muhammad Buhari, from opposition party as the Nigerian president. Looking at the enormous roles played by the youth in canvassing for vote and promoting his acceptance, it was apparent that his electoral success cut across various political parties. A good pointer to this fact that suffice in the impact of public engagement of our youth through various organizations. The youth have mobilized to serve in all constituency to ensure strict observance in electoral process with a view to prevent all form of electoral fraud and manipulation.\(^3\)

Furthermore, Nigerian Youth have been a crucial partner in the struggled aptly recorded during previous Era up to our independence in 960.\(^4\) Even till date the survival of Nigerian dynamic electoral process therefore, depends on the role of youths in the participatory democratic platform.\(^5\) Nigerian Youth have been the engine of democratic flavor and struggles that made moment of democratic victories.

2.2 The crucial role and activities of youth as pre-democratic agents assisted the popular agitations to fuel change in government as we have today in Nigerian political structure. The survival of all political system depends on the role of youth in participatory democratic platform, which allowed groups regardless of their position to articulates, anticipate, and negotiate their interest in national policy.\(^6\)

This participatory process is becoming more transparent open and accountable through the legislative system and refined public service that allowed both the gains and odds in institution and political leadership to have more exposed to anticipate the public interest which makes the electoral process to translates into a better culture and cultivates responsible government system.
2.3 Factors Hinders Youth Participation in Electoral Process

Some provisions of 1999 constitution of Federal Republic of Nigeria (as amended) do not encourage Nigerian youth to factitively involve in electoral process, for instance as provided in the constitution of federal Republic of Nigeria that the minimum age requirement for office of the president is forty (40) years, office of the senators 35 years and office of house of representatives 30 years which are capable of discouraging youth in electoral process.\(^7\)

However, in all the previous general election concluded after independence in Nigeria where marked by wide spread, violence, intimidations, bribery, and corruption visit to maintain or wrench power. Youth are introduced into political violence as a means to achieved political success. The elites are responsible for arming the youth who are mostly political thugs to manipulates results and intimidate electoral, destroying lives and properties in electoral process.\(^8\)

Furthermore, express that lack of adequate knowledge or information on politics, particularly electoral process coupled with low level of education, height level of deprivation and impoverishments in Nigerians youths face many to take readily available job opportunities implement of electoral violence. These condition easily play the gullible youth into the hand of unscrupulous politician who manipulate them by irresistible baits the youth to undertake electoral violence.
The worst part of it is that, over 90% percent of promises made for the youth by the instigator are never fulfilled lack of monitoring have left the youth at mercy of the fate an instigators like godfathers to exploit the Lapst to achieve their selfish goals out of which to indicate the youth not to actively participate in electoral process.

Large population of youth and kind of influence they can weigh on national development they have been relegated for the back ground as elderly politicians use them for various vices. We are living to the fact that some youth are use as political thugs during campaigns and election period. In other instances youth are recruited as personal body guard for corrupts Politian’s.

2.4 The Problem of Youth Participation in Electoral Process

A vital area for youth involvement in politics, however, before participation there must be establishment of political ideology.

In a nutshell, a set of ideas and policies, political moral code political ideology of one’s political goals are realized, given the importance of youth to a nation development, youth participation in electoral process should be welcomed and encouraged at all level. However without principles guiding ideology most youth would inevitably stand as unwaiting foot soldiers.

“One who stands for nothing would for anything” it is an opt way of capturing the folly awaiting those who fall to cultivate an ideology and remain impressible to whatever, fed or whom comes their way. Nigeria youth should no longer be idle in the political process and should have rethink before melding or as more common jumping into political water.

A firm ideology would serve as a compass in hand. However, youth are basically, an integral indispensable part of society and this present time have refine them serves. They should elect credible candidates who are out to deceive and betray them.

In addition, an inclusive democratic society need to ensure that its youth participate in all its affairs that, young people’s views are included in develop skills. In many Africans countries youth have not played any role in political process due to institutional and policy constraints of the state and society. To over comes the obstacle of youth participation in fundamental political democratic process, it requires carefully conceived strategy to achieve meaningful changes.

In a nutshell, the youth cannot continue to bewilder with the exhilaration of leaders of tomorrow that would never come. The Nigerian government should implement the recommendation in its national youth policy and level playing ground should be given to young people in Nigeria to participate in any decision making and governance.

g. Magajin Gari
h. Galadima Babba

All local government chairman in the emirate

3.6 General Political Culture of Birnin Kebbi

The political culture of Birnin Kebbi people like in most monarchial societies essential parochial in nature. The people tend to follow and abide by whatever, the preceding generation put in place and practice. Socially conservatives and politically unconscious and in assertive this may not be unconnected with the fact that generally speaking the political culture of people in any given society is embedded on certain factors that made possible for biding of cooperative existence of that human group as a nation of people living together. Since, political culture essentially connotes people response or behaviour, norms or values towards politics and political socialization as yard stick or track through which people cross to acquire political culture, it is necessary therefore, to identify those factors that deform the political culture of any society in attempting to bring out what form of political culture of any society.5

(1) The historical existence of present of Birnin kebbi people can be traced out from monarchial societies of theoretical (religious) Hausa Fulani Empire of Sokoto caliphate established as a result of Usmanu Danfodiyo Jahad. It can also be said to have evolved out of the monarchial system.

(2) Socio Economic Structure—In modern time, the change that occurred over time affected changes in people lives today the socio economic structure of a given society has come to be of the moving force in determine how people behave, react to any political issue. For instance, people living in a country side (with development) unexposed to white collar jobs enveloped by illiteracy, hunger, and discuss are more likely to be influenced to do or act against their interest in election. For instance, than those living in affluence. Thus, socio-economic structure in this sense to influence the culture of the people politically.
Still, coiffing example on voting during election, especially in the northern Nigeria, especially in the North West where Birnin Kebbi is located, the traditional rulers are known for campaigning their subject to vote for ruling party.\textsuperscript{6}
